Liability

The information given on this website is non-binding and is for information purposes only. Although great care is taken to ensure the accuracy of the information published on this website, Cc-Ti accepts no liability for the fidelity, accuracy, reliability, and completeness of the information contained. The Cc-Ti explicitly reserves the right at any time to partially or completely change the content, to delete it or to temporarily suspend publication, without prior notice. The Cc-Ti disclaims all liability, subject to cases of intentional or gross negligence, for material or immaterial damage as well as direct or indirect damage caused by the use or non-use of this website or the information available therein (including pdf files contained and any derivative apps).

References and links

As a matter of principle, Cc-Ti checks whether links or third-party websites comply with the legal provisions but declines all liability for the contents of references to third-party websites, as it has no influence on their contents.

Copyrights and Rights of Use

The information contained in this online site is made available to the public. Downloading or copying of texts, images, photographs, and other data does not imply the transfer of rights to the content. The copyrights attached to the texts, images, photographs, and other data published on this site and in the pdf, documents are the exclusive property of the authors or their expressly mentioned owners. Any reproduction is subject to the prior written permission of the rights holder or the allocation (by purchase) of licenses for use, and in any case the source must be cited. It is not permitted to use the contents (or any services) of the Cc-Ti's web pages in such a way as to impair, overload or damage the Cc-Ti's IT infrastructure, or to obstruct access to the Cc-Ti's website for other users. In particular, it is expressly forbidden to download and/or further process data from the Cc-Ti's web pages by means of web robots or other processes, including automatic processes.

Data protection

Pursuant to Article 13 of the Federal Constitution of 18 April 1999 of the Swiss Confederation and in accordance with the specific provisions on data protection, everyone has the right to respect for his or her private life and to be protected from misuse of his or her personal data. The Cc-Ti strictly adheres to these provisions, which are embodied in the Federal Data Protection Act (DPA).

At Cc-Ti events/courses, a list of participants is distributed containing these details: first name, surname, company. If the participant does not wish to appear on this list or wishes to omit certain information, please inform the organizer of the specific event or course directly.

Analysis Tools

This website uses Google Analytics, a web analysis service provided by Google, Inc. ('Google'). Google Analytics uses "cookies", which are text files placed on your computer, to help the website analyse how users use the site. The information generated by the cookie about your use of the website (including your IP address) will be transmitted to and stored by Google on servers in the United States. Google will use this information for the purpose of evaluating your use of the website, compiling reports on website activity for website operators and providing other services relating to website activity and internet usage.

Google may also transfer this information to third parties where required to do so by law, or where such third parties process the information on Google's behalf. Google will not associate your IP address with any other data held by Google. You may refuse the use of cookies by selecting the appropriate settings on your browser, but this may prevent you from using the full functionality of this website. By using this website, you consent to the processing of data about you by Google in the manner and for the purposes set out above.
