Zusammenfassung

I believe leadership is about clarity, empathy, and responsibility. As CEO of ICP, I lead a Swiss company specialised in non-alcoholic disinfection — developed and produced in Switzerland, trusted across the globe.

My mission is simple: to protect what matters. That means delivering hygiene solutions that are safe for people, gentle on materials, and scientifically proven to work — without compromise. Whether in IVF labs, hospitals, dental clinics, veterinary practices, hospitality, agriculture, or home care, our products support professionals who care deeply about safety, precision, and sustainability.

I studied at the University of St. Gallen and speak Hungarian, German, English, and Italian fluently. This international perspective shapes how I lead: with openness, cultural sensitivity, and a strong belief in collaboration. I work closely with our partners and teams to ensure that every product we deliver reflects our values — and earns trust where it matters most.

At ICP, we don't just manufacture disinfectants. We develop solutions for sensitive environments, where patient safety and professional integrity are non-negotiable. We invest in innovation, expand into new markets, and grow with purpose.

I'm proud of what we build. I'm proud of the people behind it. And I'm always open to connecting with others who share our commitment to quality, transparency, and impact.

Protect what matters.
